FOREWORD

King Edward's Hospital Fund for London was founded in 1897 for the support, benefit or extension of the hospitals of London. From the beginning it was the wish of its Founder that the Fund should concern itself with the efficiency of the hospitals as well as with their financial needs.

More and more over the years the value of the hospitals to the public they serve has been seen to depend not simply on buildings and equipment, nor even on methods and techniques, important as it is that these should be of the best, but primarily on the individuals who man the service.

Since the Fund's financial resources were freed from the need to help maintain all the London voluntary hospitals, now for the most part absorbed within the National Health Service, the Fund has invested increasingly in colleges and courses to aid and encourage these men and women, whose character, outlook and work decide the quality of hospital care. First came consideration for the ward sisters, staff nurses and charge nurses, then the whole range of hospital administrators, next all categories of catering staff, and finally the nurse administrators, from administrative sisters to matrons and chief male nurses.

Many elements and many factors have gone to make up the courses offered by the King's Fund, but we hope that in all of them efficiency in administration is presented as the servant of human happiness—in other words as serving the total well-being first of the patients and secondly of all the staff. Only in this way can hospitals become true communities.

This second Staff Colleges Year Book is sent out as an additional link between all the members of the Fund's Colleges and School of Catering, and as a reminder of the continued interest and the good wishes of all connected with the Fund.

McCORMACK OF NEWTON.

December, 1960.

PREFACE

Some 2,750 members of hospital and regional board staff have taken courses of more than a fortnight's duration, and in many cases of one, two or three years' duration, at the various centres established for this purpose by King Edward's Hospital Fund.

Many have asked that there should be a closer link between the "members of Staff Colleges", as they are called. In 1959 the first Staff Colleges Year Book was compiled and circulated to strengthen this link. During 1960 many members have changed their appointments, and new members have been added through courses at all four centres. A second edition has therefore been prepared.

The Year Book is sent out to members of Staff Colleges in order that they may be able to find out what fellow-members are to be found in any given regional board, hospital or group, and also (by using the index of names) where any friends they made on courses are now working. It is hoped that the Year Book will serve as a passport, enabling members to get in touch with any other members, whether known to them or not, for professional as well as social purposes. This should help to promote the spread of information on the best current practice in the hospital world, as the King's Fund has aimed at doing for more than half a century.

Four important qualifications have to be made:

(1) The Staff College for Ward Sisters was the first of the Fund's centres for hospital staff. Since it was opened in March 1949 more than 1,200 sisters, charge nurses and staff nurses—and more recently tutors—have taken courses there. Many of these are still occupying key positions in charge of wards and departments, but it has not been possible to keep track of all changes of appointment, which are not announced in the hospital and nursing press as are the appointments of hospital administrators and matrons. Over the years many others have married, or gone abroad. It was therefore decided with real regret to make an arbitrary dividing line and to include in the Year Book only the names of those who have taken courses at the Staff College for Ward Sisters in the last two years. It is hoped that the many members of the Staff College from earlier days who are still in hospital posts will understand the reason why their names do not appear and will send for copies of the Year Book if they would like to have their own.

(2) Similarly the School of Hospital Catering has given so many courses for cooks, assistant cooks and other catering staff that it is impossible to ascertain the present whereabouts of all of them. Again with regret the problem has been solved by including only the names of those known to be holding posts as catering officers or assistant catering officers or similar senior posts in the hospital service.

(3) Those who have taken courses of less than a fortnight's duration (e.g., hospital chaplains, matrons of convalescent homes, and some hundreds of catering staff) have been omitted regretfully, but an arbitrary line had to be drawn somewhere if the Year Book was not to become too detailed for practical use. Equally, those have been omitted who, as far as is known, have left the hospital service entirely.

(4) The Staff Colleges Year Book is an entirely new venture and it will no doubt contain errors and omissions. Where they are due to editorial lapses, those concerned are asked to accept this apology in advance. Perhaps they will be able to appreciate some of the difficulties. Other errors may be due to lack of up-to-date information about changes of appointment. In either case it is hoped that notification will be sent in forthwith to the Principal of the Staff College or School at which the member took his or her course.

The question whether this new link will be renewed annually depends largely on the reception the Year Book receives and the extent to which it is found to be of use. In the hope that at least from time to time a new edition will be produced, all members of Staff Colleges, and catering officers, are asked to send news of their future changes of appointment, giving the date on which they take up their new posts. These notifications also should be sent to the respective Principals. A form is enclosed for the purpose.

GUIDE TO THE USE OF THE STAFF COLLEGES YEAR BOOK

The hospitals and groups are given as in the Hospitals Year Book, but those are omitted which, as far as is known, have no members of Staff Colleges on their staff.

The numbers of the H.M.C. groups given in brackets after their names correspond with those in the Hospitals Year Book, and for the above reason are not always consecutive.

A slight modification in order has been made, in that the four Metropolitan Regions and the Wessex Region come first, since the greatest number of Staff College members are to be found in them. For the same reason the London teaching hospitals have been put before other teaching hospitals.

An index of names is provided at the end as a help in tracing a member whose present post is unknown.

H.A.S.C.		Hospital Administrative Staff College
H.P.		Staff College for Matrons, Holland Park

In the column headed "Seconded from", if only the letters R.H.B., H.M.C., B.of G. or B. of M. are given it implies that the member was seconded by his or her present hospital authority. If the member was seconded from a post elsewhere, the name of the seconding authority is given. If there is a blank, the member was not seconded from the hospital service but came newly into it, e.g., through the various bursary schemes or the national training scheme.
